ELIZABETH THOMAS YODLER EDITOR
Smith, Greenberg, Cohoe, Trindle,
McGovern Receive High Positions
NEW DEPARTMENT INSTALLED

The position of editor-in-chief of the Yodler, prized among our school honors with those of Phoenician editor or class president, will be held by Elizabeth Thomas, class of '37, next year. Christine Smith will function as associate editor in getting out the publication of W.-U. Y., while Nancy Cohoe, new head news editor, vows she will hustle every staff member till he hands in his article ON TIME! The business end of the newspaper will be planned and administered by the new sophomore, David Greenberg, who will work with David McGovern as financial manager, and William "Pickles" Trindle, circulation manager. All three boys have preferred valuable detailed suggestions for means of improving the financial basis of the Yodler.

A quick thinking, reliable staff has been selected to keep up the efficiency of the '36 Yodler. The other members are: Mildred Weigle, student activity editor; Robert Hoerle, administration; Robert Harley, boys' sports; Betty Succop, girls' sports; Mary Jane Novotney, classes; Helen Kerr, girls' clubs; Charles Crouse, boys' clubs; Mary Edith Crichton, exchanges; Herman Strelein and Freeman Fullerton, humor; Arthur Allendorfer, Betty Feathers, and Mary Zabal, typists and in charge of mimeographical work.

A new and necessary department has been added to the present staff. In order to insure large, well worded, eye-attracting headlines, Thomas Rial has been chosen headline editor, with three members of the staff assisting.

In order to obtain their respective positions, the staff members wrote news articles, corrected badly written ones, and handed in comments on any ideas for the betterment of their desired departments. Also, any work done for this year's newspaper was taken into consideration when positions were assigned.

Elizabeth, David and Christine all rank high in their scholastic achievement as well as in extracircular activities. David, although a newcomer in W.-U. Y.,

PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER DELIVERS IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS TO LARGE AUDIENCE

Quotes From Carlyle

Over six hundred people crowded the Westmont Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening, May 26, to hear the Baccalaureate service given for the eighty-seven senior graduates of the hill-top school. Rev. John Hubert Stanton, the minister, addressed the group on the subject "Who's Who."

Answering the question, "who really counts," the Rev. Mr. Stanton applied the rules of Thomas Carlyle, "the life that really counts is symbolized by three gestures of the hand: the clenched fist of conviction, the hand opened to helpfulness, and the finger pointing upward to God," in acknowledgment of faith.

Using ex-President Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover as examples of men who held their conviction and refused to drift with the crowd, he urged the class to learn to stand firm and say "No" rather than relinquish their principles. He showed by the life of Jane Addams the value of life symbolized by the outstretched hand of helpfulness.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION COURSES COMPULSORY TO FRESHMEN

Next year, a well balanced program in Health and Physical Education will be effective in the high school. All freshmen will be required to take two periods of Health and two periods of Physical Education each week.

A program of intra-mural sports, open to all boys and girls, will include hockey, soccer, archery, soft ball, hand ball, basketball, indoor tennis, and gym work.

NEW FACULTY MEMBER SELECTED FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Herbert Raab, a resident of Upper Yoder Township and a graduate of Westmont - Upper Yoder High School in the class of 1927, has been elected to the faculty of his Alma Mater for the next school term. Mr. Raab, since his graduation from Gettysburg four years ago, has been a teacher in the Richland Township High School. Beside his regular teaching, he will act as faculty adviser to the HiY Club.

Every member of the senior class took part in the pageant celebrating three hundred years of secondary education in America, the main feature of the 1935 commencement exercises given before a large appreciative audience last evening in the high school auditorium. Orchestral selections, solos, the class processional, presentation of awards and diplomas, and the benediction compiled the remaining part of the program.

"Before and After the Conestoga" was the pageant enacted by cooperative groups of seniors directed by the general chairman, Misses Canan, Margaret and Elizabeth Greer, Mr. Siegel and Mr. Tomb.

Seven episodes representing various types of schools were pantomined, following a sequence from the Latin grammar school in 1640 to the present day high school. The portrayal of the modern school took place in a typical social science class. The American common school (before 1860) followed the Latin, while the group conceding was based on the pioneer school and a graduation from a co-ed high school.

Dorothy Getty and Richard Yingling gave the historic background of each scene while it was being pantomined. This kept the program in steady action and assured the audience full understanding on the subject.

The final attraction of the pageant was a tableau representing the "Spirit of American Education," with the part of Miss Columbia being filled by Betty Dunn.

Music

Between the episodes, the orchestra played "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Dixie," and "March Militaire."

Presentation of Awards

In an impressive ritual, Mr. Ackley, supervising principal, presented eight National Athletic awards, twenty-eight Activity medals, thirteen National Honor awards, and the Stackhouse award.

1934-35 YODLER
ENDS WORK

With this final issue of the Yodler, the publications end for this most successful year. The staff has worked diligently to give the student body the best news in the best way, and feels confident that not only by the comments made but also by the money taken in for subscriptions and extra copies, that its work has been pleasing to the students. The number of extra copies sold and the total receipts exceed those of any previous year, and the year's work ends with a total of $17 profit. Whether the subscribers knew it or not, eleven copies were issued for 25c instead of ten copies promised earlier in the year. Although breathing an audible sigh of relief after a strenuous year, every member of the '35 Yodler staff feels sorry to end this pleasant work.

BACCALAUREATE

Going to the third symbol, Rev. Stanton said: "I know of no life that really counted that did not know and trust God. Of all the wrong notions, the worst is, that you can go out in life on your own resources, needing no divine help. I know of no shorter, more direct path to failure."

Concerning the popular idea that there is no place open for young people today, Rev. Stanton said that everyone has a place in life and that if a person seeks diligently, he will find it. As in the building of a great cathedral, no unneeded materials are ordered, so God does not bring extra people in the world, but brings only those he needs, and has a place for each.

The service was made further effective by appropriate musical selections and reading of poetry.

The graduating class of 1935 is to be commended for its fine contributions to the school. It has set a good example for its lower classes by its cooperation and hard work. The standards of scholarship maintained by the class will serve to raise the standing of the high school in educational circles.

The community, as well as the school itself, received much enjoyment from the plays and dances sponsored by the class. In the field of sports, the group excelled, for it provided fifteen members of the undefeated football squad and seven members of the outstanding basketball squad. From its ranks came a majority of the band and orchestra members. We feel sure that we are expressing the sentiment of the student body when we say that we are genuinely sorry to see the departure of this fine class.

has already won himself a responsible place among the present sophomores, while Christine, despite recent illness, is keeping up her marks and winning new friends among the second year pupils.

Summer meetings of all the members will be called by the new editor to get an early start in their assuredly successful work as the new Yodler staff.

NEW ATHLETIC AWARD
PRESENTED TO BOYS

Wade Ackley, Robert Beam, Ross Benchoff, Carmon Berkley, Robert Dannies, Paul Schwab, Edward Smith, and William Stalter were awarded membership to the National Athletic Honor Society last night at the commencement.

To be eligible, these boys were required to rank in the upper half of their class, scholastically, and to earn their letter in a major during their senior year. This is the first year this special award has been given to an athletic group.

D. Segel: Do you know the new gorilla song?
S. J. Waters: Well, no I don't believe I—
D. Segel: Gorilla my dreams I love you.

WILMORE REAL ESTATE
COMPANY PLANTS
W.-U. Y. TREES

The Wilmore Real Estate Company, through the efforts of Mr. Jacob Hoffman, president of the local CCC camp and former head of the State Forestry Department at Harrisburg, has replanted our school grounds by planting about 200 evergreen trees on them. The varieties include Scotch pine, Jack pine, Red pine, and Norway spruce.

A crew of twenty to thirty men is working each day, half of them digging and bringing the trees from the Wilmore Coal Co. land near Windber, and the other half planting them here around our school lot.

The trees are valued at about five dollars apiece, totaling $1,000.

Mr. Jahn said he hoped that "some day they will have formed a terrible forest around the school."

The gum chewing girl
And the cud chewing cow
Are somewhat alike.
Yet different, somehow.
But how can that be?
Oh, yes, I see now—
It's the calm, thoughtful look
On the face of the cow.

Jack Reid: Can you dig me up a girl for the Junior Prom?
J. Caddy: Sure, but why not take a live one?

STACKHOUSE AWARD PRESENTED IN HONOR OF MISS ELIZABETH BLAIR

Seniors Former Recipients

It was announced at the commencement exercises last evening, that Miss Elizabeth Harper Blair is the donee of the Stackhouse award. Miss Blair was one of the three who formed the first faculty of our high school in 1917 and did a great deal in the building up of our institution. Miss Blair will be remembered by the community for those very characteristics upon which the Stackhouse award is made: responsibility in civic affairs, courtesy in manners, unselfishness toward others, loyalty to high ideals, democracy of spirit, and service in everything.

Miss Blair received an A. B. degree from Dickinson College and Ph. D. from University of Pittsburgh. She was Professor of English at Queen's College, Charlotte, North Carolina, at the time of her death in February, 1935.

Her friends remember her as being sacrificial, affectionate, and friendly. The 1921 Phoenician bears this dedication to her:

"To Miss Blair: Who by her interest and never failing support during four rugged years has helped us cut a path through a trackless wilderness."

It has been the custom for the last six years for a graduate of the senior class to receive this award. Those who received it in the former years are Jane Charles Davis, 1929; Virginia Harris and Charles Replogle, 1930; John R. Hannan, 1931; Richard Stewart, 1932; Julia Dunn, 1933; and Clarence Hammerle, 1934.

This year, Mr. D. M. Stackhouse, the donor of the award, has been pleased to accept the suggestion of the faculty that this year's award, a picture, be hung in the name of Elizabeth Blair.

Mrs. Harry Ling, chairman of a Committee on Patriot Education in the D. A. R. organization, presented the medals given by that society. This is the second year such a medal has been presented to worthy students in the high school.

The commencement ended with the presentation of diplomas by Mr. Belles, principal of the high school.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS TO TRAIN IN REMOTE PLACES THIS SUMMER

The W.-U. Y. football players for the 1935 season are going to be maintained of brawn and muscle, for this summer each and every one (that is, almost everyone) of them is going to work hard to get in shape.

It seems that the most popular scene of hard work is on farms, for no less than seven of next year's flashes will scrimmage with the cows and pigs. John Grove, Julius Little, Sammy No-land, Jim Brickner, Ralph Schneek, Joe Nagy, and Dick Benchoff have selected rural training sites. Joe Nagy will go all the way to Iowa to his farm. Westmont-U. Y. opponents next year will be requested to keep hands off Percy Hersberger and Bob Wagner for fear of dire consequences, as these two giants are going to toughen up amid the clatter of machine guns and road of cannon at the Citizen's Military Training Camp in Virginia. Bill Carroll will attend a more peaceful boys' camp.

Andy Bezel and Art Ellis will practice with less dangerous weapons, baseball bats, while Paul Reinholz will perfect his forward passing ability in a brickyard.

Barney Bowser, the capitalist center of the squad will spend the summer golfing, tennis and swimming.

Kaiser Wilhelm's idea for keeping in trim seems to have appealed to Bob Harley and Tommy Rodgers, for they will spend the last two weeks of the summer chopping wood.

Jim Maley will spend his vacation hunting ways to keep his hair in place during hard games. "Cad" Reese will give "Hap" Spuhler and Bill Carroll special instructions twice a week on the arts of punting, blocking, tackling, and passing.

TO A FRESHMAN GIRL

I might praise your ruby lips,
Say your cheeks were white as snow,
Say your face would launch more ships
Then Helen's of long ago,
I might sing your praise in rhyme,
Yea, without a thought of self--
But fair lady all the time
I'd only kid myself.

PRELIMINARY FOOTBALL MEETING HELD

Inspiring Talks Given

In order that he might get material lined up for next year, Coach Engh called a meeting of all candidates for next year's football squad. A large number of boys attended the meeting which was held on the athletic field bleachers, Monday, May 20.

After being weighed and measured for the new jerseys, pants and helmets, the would-be gridiron flashes heard talks from Coaches Engh and Siegel. The mentors stressed the fact that being a football player is not "just a bowl of cherries;" it is hard work and "a fellow has got to have something to take it up and stick to it." They also stated that the time to come out for football is not in the senior or junior years, but in the freshman or sophomore years, and that smallness in stature should hinder no boy from coming out. Mentioning for example such players as Albie Booth, Cotton Worburton, and Howard O'Dell, small fellows who became stars, the coach said it was not always brawn that counted but that brains sometimes help.

Although about fifteen of last year's undefeated squad will be lost by graduation, the coaches have a bright outlook for next season.

THREE STUDENTS RE- PRESENT W.-U. Y. H. S. IN PLAYDAY EVENT

Dorothy Cornelius, Sara Lou Daley, and Betty Succop represented W.-U. Y. S. on Saturday, May 18, in the annual Play Day events sponsored by the Johnstown Junior College. Events took place at the Johnstown High gymnasium and at the Y. W. C. A. swimming pool, beginning at 10 o'clock.

The activities included many forms of athletic competition such as volleyball, tennis, marbles, jacks, dodgeball, rope-jumping, challenge stunts, archery, track contests, baseball and basketball.

The girls were divided into "color" teams. Sara Lou Daley was on the winning team, dark blue. Dorothy Cornelius was captain of the winning basketball team composed of girls representing various high schools. This team was also successful in defeating the Junior Pitt basketball team.

At the presentation of the awards of the National Honor Society, at the Commencement last night, the entire audience and even the seniors sat erect in their seats and actually held their breath until the last of the recipients meekly whispered his thanks, for membership in this Society is the highest honor accorded to a student of W.-U. Y. H. S.

The following members of the Senior class were elected to the Society:

- Ackley, Wade
- Anderson, Jane
- Berkley, Carmon
- Brown, Carolyn
- Dannies, Robert
- DeVaux, Isabelle
- Getty, Dorothy
- Leckey, Dorothy
- Lohr, Betty Jane
- Parks, Elaine
- Shaffer, Ruthalene
- Sobditch, Dorothy
- Yost, Russell

Students are elected to the National Honor Society on the basis of scholarship, character, leadership, and service.

In former years, members paid for their awards. This year, the Westmont Home and School Club purchased the awards for the group.

SCHOOL FINANCIAL REPORT

The various treasurers and business managers of the different classes and organizations have managed to keep their treasuries replenished by various money making schemes. The following financial list shows the profits of the classes and organizations of the terms 1934 and 1935:

The Senior Play, "The Return of Peter Grim" $	71.95
The operetta, "The Rose of the Danube"	$110.07
The Girl Reserve's rummage sale	$ 31.09
The Yodler rummage sale	$ 21.00
The Senior candy sales $	120.00
The magazine subscriptions	$ 27.71
The Senior noon dances $	19.14
The dances after basketball games	$ 7.10

Although this report indicates the result of only a few financial projects, yet it shows the general good spirit of the student body toward its financial obligations.

NINETY-NINE PUPILS GRADUATE AT W.-U. Y. FROM EIGHTH GRADE

At an attractive, well-planned commencement, Wednesday, May 29, in the Westmont-U. Y. auditorium, the eighth grade members of the Westmont and Upper Yoder system were officially made ex-graduate school pupils. Rev. John Hubert Stanton, new Presbyterian minister, then gave the principal address of the evening on "Where the Blue Begins." The program followed an impressive trend.

Following the innovation offered by Rev. Arthur Rummel, the graduates sang four numbers: "Song of Unison," by Beethoven; "Now is the Month of Maying," by Morley; "A Flower Legend," by Hosmer. Special selections, by Kern, and "We March On," "Dreamland Shadows" and "The Champion" were played by the orchestra.

Finally, the long waited for moment of the graduation arrived—the presentation of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary Medals. Seymour S. Silverstone awarded the former to Reed Meredith Smith from Tioga street school, Robert Henry Miller, of Stutzman, Milan Diklich, Jr., of Benscreek, Clarence Sheridan Shaw, of Berkeley, and Edgar Hanks, of Elmhurst; Mrs. John Shimp and Mrs. Leroy Bidelman awarded the latter to Doris Fox, Laura Miller Yost, Mildred Marie Haynes, Miriam Ruth Barnhart, and Jean Lucille Hershberger, of the above respective schools.

Mr. Ackley, supervising principal, then gave ninety-nine certificates to the graduates.

The program ended with the singing of "America" and the benediction.

A TRIBUTE

The graduating class of 1935 is to be commended for its fine contributions to the school. It has set a good example for the lower classes by its cooperation and hard work. The standards of scholarship maintained by the class will serve to raise the standing of the high school in educational circles.

The community, as well as the school itself, received much enjoyment from the plays and dances sponsored by the class. From its ranks came a majority of the band and orchestra members. We feel sure that we are expressing the sentiment of the student body when we say that we are genuinely sorry to see the departure of this fine class.

THE PAINT BRUSH AND TYPEWRITER KEY ROMANCE CULMINATE

It seems that recently a climax has come to a romance which grew so to speak, between a very small paint brush, (and a good one) and a certain typewriter key. As time rolled on, this understanding came to the fore in the form of an engagement announcement of Miss Sara Goodwin, pettit art instructor and the stalwart senior class advisor, E. Vaughn McIlhenny, with the bad result of our losing a valuable teacher, and the good result of having "Mac" quiet down for the heat of battle.

On the morning of the 17th of May, the day after the announcement, "Mac" looked like the cat which had eaten the canary. (He even forgot to read the Bible!)

They'll be married in June. The seniors hope that when "Mac's" wife comes home late from bridge club he won't forget and say, "you owe me an excuse," that old theme song.

WORLD WAR RECREATED BY HISTORY CLASSES

On Friday, May 17, a series of Liberty Loan Posters invaded the school library. For a while the exhibition seemed rather pointless and its purpose very vague. There was, however, sound reasoning behind its appearance. Mr. Tomb's history classes were studying the World War.

The pupils had been seeing the war through the eyes of the generals and correspondents, and, therefore wished to see it as civilians. They brought in relics, scrapbooks, newspapers, pictures, and articles about the war. Through this exhibition they were able to create the feeling of the people; to recall the great sacrifices of the mothers of America; to realize what it means to be deprived of sons, brothers, sweethearts and friends; to acquire an understanding of the thoughts of a war-ridden people who live under the shadow of doubt, never knowing if their loved ones will come home gassed, shell-shocked, or maimed. Although horrible in its reality, the classes have now a better idea of the World War.

ROBERTA MCINTYRE TO GIVE PIANO RECITAL AT HOME

Roberta McIntyre, a senior, will give her piano recital at the meeting of the Johnstown Junior Music League to be held at her home on the evening of June 6.

Katherine Watkins will sing several soprano solos and will be accompanied by Isabelle DeVaux. Dorothy Getty is president of the League.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER TEA DECIDED SUCCESS

Mrs. C. R. Leacher, Speaker

On Tuesday afternoon, May 28, the mothers of W.-U. Y. were charmingly entertained at a tea given by the Girl Reserves and Girls' League in the school cafeteria.

The impressive candle-light installation of the new officers of Girl Reserves well headed the program of delightful entertainment.

The main speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Chester R. Leacher, sister of Miss McCann. Mrs. Leacher, who has lived in India for the past eight years, spoke on the "Social Life in India."

Musical numbers then preceded the pouring of tea, which was done by the new Girl Reserve and Girls' League officers: Patty Rose Stambach and Jean Barnhart, respective presidents; Louise Claffin and Mary Edith Crichton, vice presidents; Mary Jane McCauliff and Lucille Wainger, secretaries; and Betty Williams and Laura Kuntz, treasurer.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

The progressive junior class re-established an old Westmont custom this year by starting the Junior-Senior off with a banquet. The class seemed to know the way to young men's hearts. A delicious dinner, which was served in the cafeteria, won the appreciation of the hundred and two guests.

After dinner there were flashes into the future. Imagine Curt Barnhart as a baker and Bill Stitt as a policeman! "Bud" Henneke and "Dot" Cornelius seemed to be conducting a brisk business in their music store, didn't they? And who wouldn't want to be sick if Betty Dunn were the nurse?

Then soft lights and sweet music. To the strains of Earl Mack's orchestra, our gallant Romeos and Juliets glided. The swish of evening dresses and the sight of all our boys sporting white shoes seemed to prove that this was the crowning event of the year.

Palms, ferns, balloons, novel decorations for this occasion added to the glamour. It was a great send-off to the seniors—one that any person who attended will not soon forget.

Getty and Berkley Receive Bronze Medals

At the commencement exercises last evening Dorothy Getty and Carmon Berkley were awarded the D. A. R. Good Citizenship Medals.

These medals were given to these students because they best represent the qualities of character which result in worthy citizenship, the exercise of its privileges and responsibilities, and the development of a higher type of manhood and womanhood. The specific qualifications by which the candidates were judged are honor, service, courage, leadership, and scholarship.

The medals, in bronze, were presented by Mrs. Harry Ling, a member of the D. A. R. organization.

'35 PHOENICIAN REACHES CREDITABLE POPULARITY

That long brooding suspense has finally been satisfied with a cracker jack product in the form of the '35' Phoenician. The seniors have walked away with all honors. A new and unique year book, the ambition of every graduating group, is a result of clever creations by the members of the Phoenician staff under the able direction of David Elsasser. David is not only to be credited with a fine year book, but also as candy and hot dog salesman for the appropriation of his prize. Talented photographers caught unsuspecting students off their mark, resulting in clever snaps which add to the originality.

The Yoder staff of course is especially interested in the "Profit", a characteristic and choice page for optimistic fans. All seniors are certainly to be complimented on such a great success, particularly because of the untiring interest and ambition displayed by the staff and faculty adviser, Miss McGann.

The first dramatic effort of the faculty, "Charley's Aunt" brought roars of laughter from a delighted audience.

For the first time the Yodler sold over 400 extra copies and came out ahead financially, $17.

The first appearance of an announcement sheet from the office was made in the form of Mr. Belles' "Blah."

For the first time A. B. C. pupils were dismissed at 2:50.

VACATIONS PLANNED
BY FACULTY MEMBERS

Mr. Siegel tops the list in line of vacations. He plans to spend six weeks at Pitt, six weeks at Duke, and the remaining weeks in his home town.

Gardens are going to improve; at least around Mr. Ott's home. He plans to do a "bit of farming."

Miss Landis is going to Willow Grove in Philadelphia for part of the summer and then hopes to go to Atlantic City for a brief visit.

St. Petersburg will be the city of Mr. and Mrs. McIlhays' honeymoon and then they will return home to, what Mr. McIlhays terms, "the country."

Miss Canan is going to gather ferns for Carnegie Institute, and we have a suspicion that she will be doing a lot of driving around in her new Buick car.

There's no place like home, and Mr. Tomb, Miss Raab, and Mr. Engh are going to follow this proverb by spending their vacations here in Johnstown.

Miss Margaret Greer will attend summer school in Pittsburgh.

Miss Elizabeth Greer will probably spend some time in Yellowstone National Park.

Miss Esenwein plans to attend plays and concerts at Chautauqua, New York, near her home.

The Williams sisters haven't decided just what summer will bring them in the line of vacations, but hope for something exciting.

Miss Mae Finkelston is going to spend two weeks in New York city.

Miss Witt will be the dietitian at the Memorial Hospital for two months during vacation.

Mr. Belles plans to attend either Chicago or Columbia University.

Mr. Ackley will not take any vacation but will work in the school building all summer.

Miss McGann will entertain her sister, Mrs. Chester R. Leabner, who has recently returned from Calcutta, India. She will also attend the University of Pittsburgh for two weeks.

Miss Kanmer will raise ducks this summer. "Want to buy a duck?"

FOURTEEN NOVEL
EVENTS INAUGURATED
THIS YEAR

During the first administration of Mr. Belles and Mr. Ackley, as an aftermath of the Century of Progress, we think, our school made many initial advancements. The innovations occurred thus:

The first permanent bleachers were erected on the athletic field.

The first cheering squad of more than ten members lead the howling pack of school followers.

For the first time the principal and the supervising principal consolidated and used one office together.

The first awards for outstanding work in organizations, band, orchestra, glee club, newspaper and plays were given in addition to those presented for scholarship or athletics.

The assemblies this year will long be remembered as the first interesting, lively, and numerous ones.

For the first time, the school day was shortened by a half-hour.

For the first time, smooth, synchronized music floated from the "gym" at noon for the purpose of increasing the seniors treasury.

For the first time there has been no need to cram because there were no scheduled final tests.

The final standard, silver ring to represent the whole school instead of one particular class was adopted.

The first time an informal dance, the gym jam, took place and was highly successful, socially and financially, occurred this year.

Mr. Bellas—And now we find "x" equals zero.
Fuddy—Ah! gee—all that work for nothing.

M. E. Crichton—"Oh! there's a bug in the meat!"
B. Harley—"Let him alone—he won't eat much."

Andy—"What for are you makin' dat carbon copy of your letter to Ruby?"

Amos—"Why ah's inclosing des here carbon copy in case dat she can't read my handwriting."

OVER THE WIRES

Hello, Betty!

Whom have you been talking to so long? I've tried to get you for the last half hour and your line has been busy. I've just got loads to tell you. Are you going to the Commencement tonight? I hate to see the seniors leave. I wonder what some of the kids are going to do now. Especially those certain girls who go steady. Or are they really going steady? That little blonde, five feet two, eyes of blue, is supposed to be getting the regular run-around.

I heard that Johnny Grove makes pretty good fudge, but, oh well, he gets plenty of practice at Peggy's. . . . Well now, listen to this, Hennie Sheesley has a real boy scout who carries her books home for her and goes on Sunday afternoon walks with her. . . . Gee, it's too bad Bob McElowney won't be here next year. Now "Wagon Wheels" won't have anyone to shadow or I wonder whether Bob's best friend will take his place. . . . Say, listen, Dan Barnhart has something to look forward to this summer. I believe it is a trip to the "metropolis." Get it? . . . Oh, Betty, do you know why we never hear of Edna Behndt? Well, she's going with a fellow by the name of Joe. I don't know what his last name is. . . . Nookie Price and Betty Williams aren't the only ones who seek companions from Fendale. Rena Hoffman is seen quite frequently with Jim Ling and Kathryn Watkins with Ed Hindman. . . . Golly, won't Bud Henneke certainly spend many amusing hours looking over his snapshots? He has enough of them and of quite a few people. . . . And, Betty, I saw Dick Benchoff walk home from the Junior plays with someone from Third avenue. She lives in a big stone house. I wonder who it was? . . . For pity sakes, those people never give anyone a chance to really talk. But I'll see you this evening and tell you the rest.

Good bye.

Waters: What is your favorite hymn, daughter?
Pat: The one you chased out of the yard last night.

L. Yost: What's the difference between a cat and a comma?
Miss Kanmer: Go ahead, shoot.
L. Yost: A cat has its claws after its paws and a comma's pause after a clause.
