Play Cast Celebrates
At Fullerton Home

According to the audience, the climax of "The Cat and the Canary" came when the maniac crept out of the panel toward the helpless heroine, but for the cast it arrived at the home of Freeman Fullerton at midnight when he opened the door of his dining room and yelled, "Come and get it".

The table groaned under lucious mounds of sandwiches and ice cream. Piles of cheese gleamed against cold ham under hills of crackers. Pickles and olives garnished every dish. As the evening progressed the table grew lighter and lighter but the guests gained and gained.

The cast talked in their play lines, sang, played the piano, and listened to the radio. The noise kept the house rocking until the wee hours of the morning when all went home to dream of blue foot-lights, maniacs, and fun.

W.U.Y. Students
In All-State Band
Held at Indiana

Four students, Charles Cook, Bill Robinson, Sara Jane Waters, and Virginia Wright represented the high school in the Pennsylvania All-State Band concerts, held at Indiana, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of last week.

The band was composed of 196 high school students from sixty high schools in Pennsylvania. The conductor of the three concerts was Captain Charles O'Neill of 22nd Royal Canadian Regiment.

Cohoe, Smith, Harley, Price
Elected Presidents of Boys'
And Girls' Clubs

Reelection for Boys'
Club Necessary

After a week of campaigning, the officers for the various clubs, Girls' League, Girl Reserves, Boys' Club, and Hi-Y, were elected, Monday May 18. The newly elected officers will take their respective offices at the beginning of the next school term.

A reelection for the presidency of the Boys' Club was necessary, as the former election first resulted in a tie between Charles Price and Harry Trodennick, each having a total of sixty three votes.

Nancy Cohoe will replace Joan Barnhart as president of the Girls' League, with Elizabeth Anderson assisting her as vice-president, Betty Glosser, as secretary, and Jane Blough, as treasurer.

In the Girl Reserves elections, retiring president Patty Rose Stambach will be succeeded by Christine Smith. Aiding her will be Naomi Beam, vice president, Roberta Berkley, secretary, and Rosina Kelly, treasurer.

Charles Price, the newly elected president of the Boys' Club, will succeed Harry Allendorfer. His cabinet members will be vice-president, Freeman Fullerton, and secretary-treasurer, Carl Hipp.

The Hi-Y elected Robert Harley to succeed John Grove as president. He will be assisted by Harry Trodennick, vice-president; Charles Cook, secretary, and Charles Crouse, treasurer.

Student Council Delegates

Attend State Convention

Christine Smith and Herman Streilein represented Westmont-U.Y. at a state-wide student council convention held in Ebensburg, Saturday May 18. This organization voted their next second vice-president should be chosen from Westmont-U.Y. student council. This election will be held next fall in our school.

The speakers of the day were Dr. Bentz, Cambria County superintendent of schools, and Jack Neil, of Altoona, president of the national student council organization.

Next year's convention will be held in October, at York, Pennsylvania.

Lillian Little Receives Recognition in Magazine

A poem written by Lillian, entitled "The Packard 120 for 1936", was published in the May 11 issue of the Packard Magazine.

"I wrote it," said Lillian, "to show my appreciation to Mr. Ray Williams of the Packard Motor Company, who taught me how to drive."

With the poem appeared a picture of her mother, father, and herself.

The last one of the five verses appears below:

"Now Packard sincerely invites you
to ride,
This car that may now be your treasure
and pride,
Be one of the thousands of owners to say
That "Packard 120's the car of the day."

Nine Seniors Decide To Become Teachers

The election of teachers in "U.Y.H.S. will not be a problem for many years to come, as nine seniors expressed their desire last Tuesday, through a bulletin issued by the State Teachers' Normal College to make teaching their profession.

They are: Catherine Evans, Jane Fox, Sara Miller, Rose Marie Reddinger, Janet Trofts, Patty Williams, Richard Benschoff, and Dean Engh.

Seniors Win Track Meet

The annual inter-class track and field meet, held May 11 and 12 on the Price Memorial Field, was won by the seniors with a total of 44 points. The sophomores were second with 38 points, and the juniors took third place with 17.

John Grove was individual champion with 25 points. Charles Emigh credited the sophomore class with 17; Elmer Rhodes, highest scorer for the juniors, merited 10.

The International Relations Club Is Formed

A new club, The International Relations Club, is being organized by Miss Reiser and her student teacher, Mr. Gerald Burke. The purpose of the club is to discuss international questions.

Membership is restricted to juniors and seniors. This year, however, seniors will not participate, as the school term is almost at a close.

As yet there has not been a definite day set for the meetings. Next fall the club will be fully organized.

Home Arts Club Enjoys Treasure Hunt

Violet Martin was the finder of a pound box of chocolate candy during the treasure hunt held in Stackhouse Park, May 11, by the Home Arts Club.

Pauline Bowman, president, and Mary Kocis, secretary, blazed the trail by posting signs for guides and hiding the treasures which included handkerchiefs, sachets, and a china dog.

At the end of the trail the winner's candy was sampled by everyone.

Chemistry Classes Visit Franklin Works

Wednesday and Thursday May 13 and 14, the senior and junior chemistry classes, respectively, took a three hour trip through the Franklin plant of the Bethlehem Steel Mills.

The students first saw the benzol plant, chemical laboratory, and other by-product plants. Next, they witnessed coke being pushed out of an oven into waiting cars. The class witnessed, step by step, the manufacture of steel from the raw ore into steel plates. The process included the blast furnace and the open hearth furnace, which were being charged and tapped, and the rolling mill in which the ingots are heated, formed into slabs, and rolled into sheets of steel.

Little Johnny Sell, when asked after the matinee of "The Cat and The Canary" whether he was frightened by the play, said, "No, I wasn't exactly scared, but I got a little nervous when things began to happen so suddenly."

"Divvy" Cohoe, grade I, left after the second act and rushed home crying, "Spirits--spirits--got the necklace."

Johnny Walters from Southmont is hunting a good heavy sledge hammer to use on Southmont students who didn't attend the play.

"It was as good as any movie," said Miss Kantner.

"Best piece of amateur work I've ever seen," declared Miss Reiser.

Miss Esenwein commented, "I think it was splendid. The climaxes were very well worked up."

"My, wasn't that splendid work for children in high school!" said a lady, as she left the auditorium Friday evening.

William Trindle, finance manager of the play, speaks favorably of the proceeds. He reports, "approximately $80 have been cleared."

History Repeats Itself

There is an old adage that "History repeats itself." There is also one "Like father, like son." In the recent junior play both proved very true. The part "Charlie Wilder," played by Thomas Rial, was played by his father in a high school play in Franklin, Pennsylvania, in 1915.

It seems that Mr. Rial was so overtaken by the talent of his son that he failed to recognize the part. It took the sharp eyes and ears of Mrs. Rial to realize the fact that their son was playing the self-same part as the father had played several years ago when she and Mr. Rial were high-school friends.

Mr. Ott said, "This year's chemistry classes saw more of the processes than did previous classes, in as much as the mills are working to a greater extent now."

WINNIE WEST - ♡ - ♡ -

Dear Winnie:

Do you think I am being led on?

Tommy Rodgers

Dear Tommy:

If you think you are, why do you go back for Moore and Moore?

Winnie West

Dear Winnie:

Do you think my girl "May" drop me?

Misguided

Dear Misguided:

Be careful, there's a "Little" danger.

Winnie West

Dear Winnie:

Do you think my escort liked the play?

Doris

Dear Doris:

Engh it all; he should have and eggs. It was a good play.

Winnie West

Dear Winnie:

I like big boys. What do you think of my new boy-friend?

Nancy Cohoe

Dear Nancy:

I believe he weighs a "Fullerton" more than any of the other boys.

Winnie West

Dear Winnie:

I've been troubled with my Latin vocabulary. I can't remember how to say high.

Paul W.

Dear Paul W.

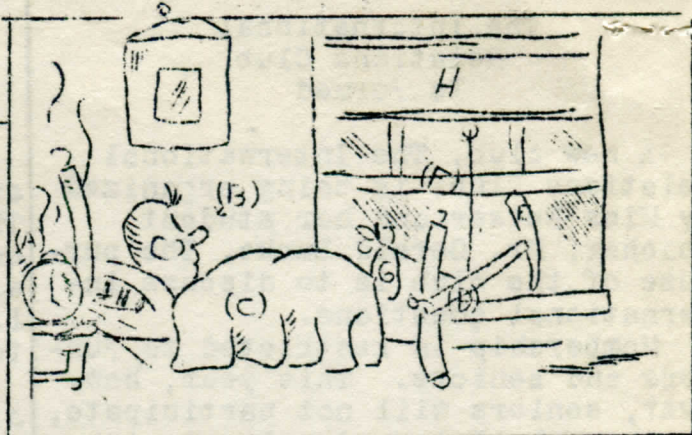

In the Latin vocabulary "Alta" is always high.

BUY A PHOENICIAN

Early Morning Rising

The alarm clock (A) rings and wakes up the victim (B). He jumps up, moving the bed which pushes the lever (D), knocking over stick (E) and thereby bringing down the window (F) with a bang. The noise scares sleeper who again leaps up, lowering his foot (G) and pulling down the blind (H). The alarm clock then gives off an aroma of bacon and eggs.

M. E. C.: "Can you drive with one hand?"

Frank: "Surely"

M. E. C.: "Then have an apple."

She: "Wonder what Sir Walter Raleigh said to Queen Elizabeth when he put his coat down for her."

T. Rodgers: "Probably, 'Step on it kid!'"

Bill Price: "I hear they are starting a campaign against malaria."

Mr. Raab: "No, now what are the Molarians doing?"

"Coach Engh is some conversationalist, isn't he?"

"He ought to be; he spent the whole fall strengthening his line."
