Is It Martial Law?

That great emergency known no law seems to be a doctrine particularly accepted in this country, and upon it is based the steady dominion which Judge Lynch obtains among us.

So now we are not much surprised that the judge has taken things into his hands at Johnstown. The fact that a few thieves and other barbarians have been strung up for their misdeeds has created neither sensation nor protest, and undoubtedly the dominant feeling is that they were served right.

It is interesting to note in this connection that a leading member of the nationalities has voted Johnstown to inquire into the charges against his people, and that he reports that the finger-cutting stories were made up out of the whole cloth by the reporters.

A woman survivor of the Johnstown horror says that she saw a thousand drown. Even if she were unimpaired, and had lost no relatives or friends, the mere recollection of such a spectacle is a sickening and fearful thing.

The Virginia Military Institute will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on the third and fourth of July, and an institution so widely and favorably known may be sure of general interest in its semi-centennial.

The lawns and gardens of Lancaster are in their glory, and the roses contribute a large share of the color. These lines in Vlek's Magazine tell how they should be pruned to bloom better.

GENERAL MANAGER PUOH, who was confident that Mr. McCullough was wrong in his statement that not less than twenty, and perhaps even forty persons, were lost on the Day Express and Mail trains at Conemaugh.

Gov. Hill has vetoed the high license bill passed by the New York Legislature, in a long opinion, which we do not take time to read, save to note the severely denunciatory language he uses and the fact that he says that he favors high license but objects to the details of the law.

All this may be so; and if the bill is so defective, clearly it ought not to be made a law. But we are hardly content to accept Governor Hill's judgment on this point, knowing that he was elected by the liquor interest, and furthermore observing that he has a habit of favoring reforms in his words but failing in his deed.

England on these dynamic missions.

England on these dynamic missions, seem to have pretty generally come to grief there. The other charge, of misusing the money of the society, is sustained by evidence that Sullivan checked out to his brokers some ninety thousand dollars of money received for the society, and used it in his private speculations.

The Cronin portrait of Sullivan pictures him as a combination of Machiavelli and the devil, and a mighty mean man altogether.

Danger Ahead. A week has passed since the Johnstown flood, and estimates of the loss are yet only wild guesses, which might be reliable if applied to the deaths that may yet result from the disaster through pestilence and other causes.

The work of cleaning must be very slow, and meanwhile the great areas of so-called low lands are gradually drying off. We may expect to read a great deal about pneumonia before long, and though the first alarm comes from Johnstown with a hundred cases, that insidious enemy is doubtless lurking along all the flooded valleys.

The Virginia Military Institute will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary on the third and fourth of July, and an institution so widely and favorably known may be sure of general interest in its semi-centennial.

Extraordinary License.

It seems to me," remarked one of our citizens the other day, "that physicians are allowed an extraordinary license in the manner in which they juggle with the welfare of their patients."

"Now here is Dr. who was attending Mr. up to the time of his death, and if he treated him for one thing he treated him for a dozen different disorders. First the doctor said pneumonia was the trouble; then it was consumption. Then the patient was dosed for heart trouble, and so on until just before he died it was ascertained that disease of the kidneys was the real trouble, and that which had been at first treated as pneumonia, consumption, heart disease, etc., were but the symptoms of kidney disease."

"But then it was too late."

"This is only one case in a hundred, and I am beginning to lose faith in the doctors altogether. In fact I haven't had any need for their services since I began to keep Warner's Safe Cure in my house, a little over three years ago. Whenever I feel a little out of sorts I take a few doses of it, confident that the source of all disease is in the kidneys, which I know Warner's Safe Cure will keep in good order, and will eradicate any disease that may be lurking there. Had Mr. followed a similar course, I have no doubt that he would be alive today; but of course all people don't think alike."

"One thing is certain, however, and that is the doctors are allowed an extraordinary license in the way they have of pretending to know that which they really know nothing about. If they don't know what is the real trouble with the patient, and that which had been at first treated as pneumonia, consumption, heart disease, etc., were but the symptoms of kidney disease."

Wanamaker's.

The 28c Albatross will wind up with the week. That's the way it looks now. As memorable an event in Dress Goods selling as we ever knew of.

One of the busiest, breeziest places in the store is where the new-priced Printed Mohairs are, 37 1/2c up.

Whatever kind of a rig the well-dressed man cares for. We have it ready made. But nine times out of ten you'd never mistrust from cut or make or fit that it wasn't made to order.

Wide wale Cheviot Serge, dark blue, fast colors; dressy, fashionable, and the price $15!

Fine wool, peppered with glistening specks of silk thread; two shades of color—a sort of indistinct herring bone stripe.

You get a notion from these of what we mean our Men's Clothing business to be. We are up to the mark almost everywhere.

Take Trousers. To work in or to go to church in. For tall men or short, or fat or slim. Shapes and stuffs and prices are right.
