DEATH'S DOINGS.

The most frightful stories fully confirmed.

The unidentified victims of fire and flood buried in Deep Trenches by Thousands.

(SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD-EXAMINER.)

JOHNSTOWN, June 3.—Developments every hour make more and more apparent that the exact number of lives lost in the Johnstown horror will never be known. All estimates that have been made up to this time are conservative, and when all is known it will doubtless be found to have been too small. Over 1,000 bodies have been found since sunrise to-day, and the most skeptical concede that the remains above the Johnstown bridge. The population of Johnstown and the surrounding towns and the portion of the valley affected by the flood is was from 50,000 to 55,000.

The Associated Press correspondents to-day interviewed numerous leading citizens of Johnstown who survived the flood.

A CONSENSUS OF THEIR OPINIONS.

Was that the number of persons residing in Johnstown and Cambria had been the victim of the combined disasters of fire and water.

If this be true, the total loss of life in the entire valley cannot be less than 7,000 or 8,000, and possibly much greater.

Persons who were destroyed by the flames, and whose bodies were found in the smoking debris above the Johnstown bridge, are not included in the above estimate, as little will be known of the hundreds that perished beneath the current.

And were some victims of the calamity only to be deposited hundreds of miles below in the driftwood of the raging Ohio.

Probably one-third of the dead will never be recovered, and it was estimated that the flood waves hence to enable even a conservative estimate of the number of persons who were blotted out in that brief hour.
