

MURDER MOST FOUL.

Gradually Unraveling the Mystery in the Cronin Case.

IDENTIFICATION OF MARONEY.

It Has Been Accomplished—He and McDonald Arraigned in New York—Alexander Sullivan Wants a Habeas Corpus.

Chicago, June 12.—A strong chain of circumstantial evidence has been woven about John J. Maroney, now under arrest in New York on suspicion of being connected with the murder of Dr. Cronin. The story as given by the authorities is as follows: Photographs were procured of Maroney and McDonald, the other man arrested in New York. These were mixed with a number of others and first shown to Salesman Hatfield, of Revell & Co., who sold the furniture subsequently found in the Cronin cottage in which Dr. Cronin was murdered. Hatfield, without hesitation, picked out Maroney's portrait as that of the man who drove Dr. Cronin away. The pictures were then shown to Throckmorton, the real estate agent, who pointed out the man to whom the pictures were shown as the man who rented the furniture to the Cronins, and in the same room as the pictures were shown to Throckmorton. Once more the pictures were shuffled and this time they were shown to Expressman Morrison who carried the furniture to the Cronin cottage. In each case the man given his name as J. B. Simmons. Chief Hurd says he understands Maroney's picture has been shown to Mrs. Cronin, and that she has not recognized the man who drove Dr. Cronin away. Requisition papers have been secured from Governor Eifer, and this morning a Philbrick detective started for New York with them.

John J. Maroney Willing to Go to Chicago. New York, June 12.—John J. Maroney, under arrest here for complicity in the Cronin murder, it is said, is willing to go to Chicago and face the charge. He asserts in the most positive language that he is entirely innocent of the crime. Maroney uses every endeavor to create the impression that he knows more about the murder of Cronin than he is willing to tell here. Inspectors, however, do not seem to place much confidence in him.

Maroney and McDonald Arraigned. New York, June 12.—Maroney and McDonald were arraigned at the police court this afternoon and committed without bail to await the preliminary hearing, but have no hesitation in going to Chicago, but if I will be permitted to prove an alibi here, I would like to do so.

This lawyer interferred and stopped his talking further. After being arrested and remanded, both the men talked to a reporter. McDonald said he came here from Philadelphia four years ago and never had seen Dr. Cronin. He said he had traveled five miles on a railroad since that time. For the past thirteen months he has been employed in a blacksmith shop on First avenue. Referring to a statement in a morning paper that he had been in Indiana, McDonald said that was not the case. He never had been in that state. The only time he ever met Dillon was on the 1st of May last. He never said a word to Dillon about Dr. Cronin.

Maroney said that he first became acquainted with Dillon in Philadelphia years ago. He believed the charge against McDonald and himself was a mistake. He had made a scandal for friends of Sullivan. He had known Dillon when he was an obscure slipper maker and had seen him go up from that until he had become a millionaire. He had been told to order the arrest of a man in Tinianet and China, so long as he was a Sullivan man.

In regard to McDonald, Maroney said he had been acquainted with him for some time. While they were not enemies, they were never particularly friendly. As to the charge of murder, they both denied any knowledge of it.

Sullivan Declines to See Anyone. Chicago, June 12.—Alexander Sullivan declined to see any callers this morning, except his law partner, and none of the horde of curiosity seekers who gained admittance to the cage were able to get a glimpse of him. To a friend who sent Sullivan a letter, he had written a few lines, but his unabashed confidence in him and belief in his innocence, the ex-president of the first national league returned the following reply: "I am very grateful for your kind words. The old lawyer will justify you in his use. Sincerely, ALEXANDER SULLIVAN."

Sullivan's friends are considering the advisability of making a wholesale grocer, or other business, out of the name. The truth of Sullivan's friends held a consultation with Judge Daly, but of what nature none would reveal. Mr. Trade, however, said that it was very probable that a writ would be applied for.

This afternoon Sullivan made an application by attorney, returnable at 4 o'clock, for a writ of habeas corpus. It asserts that the verdict of the coroner's jury is insufficient for his commitment without bail; that though a large amount of extra judicial evidence was taken by the coroner, no testimony was taken to establish incrimination was produced, and that his imprisonment is the result of passion and prejudice. He declares he is entirely innocent of any connection with Cronin's death.

The Cronin Special Grand Jury Charged.

Chicago, June 12.—The special grand jury to deal with the Cronin case was inducted this morning in Judge Shepard's court. In addressing the jury, Judge Shepard said he expected a full, exhaustive and impartial investigation of the murder. The entire resources of the county, he said, would be at the disposal of the jury, and witnesses who would not testify, should be made to do so, as the grand jury had in its possession the power to do so.

There are two fishermen on the panel, W. O. O'Neil, the wholesale grocer, and O'Neil, ex-commissioner. After being charged by Judge Shepard as to their duties, they repaired to the grand jury room and entered on the consideration of the case.

The special venire for the jury was returned into court by Sheriff Matson in person. He stated that he chose the jurors by turning to the business part of the directories, selecting the names of men well known in particular branches of business, with special care that no one should be drawn who entertained prejudice for or against the Cronin case. Judge Shepard's appointees, as H. Clough foreman of the jury, the greatest precautions were taken to keep the proceedings secret, although the jury members were allowed to hear the witnesses who had already told what they knew about the coroner's inquest. After the jury had organized, they listened to the story of Carlized Schuttler who told what he had learned.

Subpoenas were served on Dr. Cronin's friends, Saloon-keeper Coaklin and wife; the two Carsons, father and son; James Molten, manager of the Cronin; E. G. Throckmorton, clerk for Knight & Marshall, real estate agents; Salesman W. H. Hatfield, of Revell & Co.; M. E. McHale, carpet layer for Revell & Co.; Joseph Cronin, brother of Dr. Cronin, and Justice Mahoney, of Lake View.

Mr. Throckmorton told of the routing of the flat at 117 Clark street by J. B. Simmons. It took ten minutes for Mr. Hatfield to relate all about the purchase of the furniture at Revell & Co.'s. He came down in fifteen minutes.

Justice Mahoney then entered and stayed for two hours, all the other witnesses being presently sent home. The usage of the contract was very hard about the contract P. O. Sullivan had made with Dr. Cronin. It is reported that he was charged with having guilty knowledge of the contract, with attempting to suppress part of the truth about the so-called Washington literary society; with being a bitter biter of the doctor and with attempting to shield the supposed murderer. Mahoney after a long examination emerged in a very excited, if not tremulous and nervous, condition and the grand jury adjourned until tomorrow.

LOVES LABOR LOST.

The Common Law Husband of Christian Sister Plunkett Will Sue for a Divorce. (Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.) New York, June 12.—When Christian scientist Sister Plunkett calmly repudiated her common law husband and took to herself a spouse after the manner of Christian science, Brother Plunkett was somewhat dazed. The new marriage could hardly be called bigamous, for there exist grave doubts whether indeed it is marriage at all, and it seemed unfair to tax Mrs. Plunkett with infidelity, so frank and candid was her announcement of her new conjugal plans. Nevertheless, Mr. Plunkett has deputed to the Examiner that he has for some time past, instituted a suit for divorce, if for no other reason than to settle some little financial questions which have arisen during the final settlement between this extraordinary trio.

Plunkett discovered that his wife had taken to Worthington, her Christian science husband, $15,000 worth of securities, including, strangely enough, $7,500 of his own. Plunkett's life and very naturally Brother Plunkett kicked. "If places you in an awkward position; now doesn't it?" said he yesterday, "for these policies on my life? It makes a piece of property of me, and gives them an insurable interest in me which I feel they do not wish to pay. I am willing to call longer have any right to them. I will not let my policies go to anyone else. Plunkett such things of mine as she withholds from me, my principal anxiety, however, is to secure my wife."

When Mr. Plunkett, in a brotherly way, is not satisfied that Mr. Worthington is a fit person to be his successor, Worthington told him so much of his life that was not true. He claimed to have been a successful insurance operator in California for twenty-five years.

"I have since learned that he is utterly unknown in that state. Then he claimed that he stamped Ohio for Harrison during the late presidential fight, but he most absurd claim is that he is a warm personal friend of the President; that he had dined with him often and had been personally assured of a foreign mission. The President never met him. Worthington is regarding these statements, and has replied that no such person as Worthington is or ever has been known to the President."

Turner's Turn to Turn Up His Toes. MARKHAM, Va., June 12.—Information has been received here that Edward Palmer Turner, who shot and killed his cousin and brother-in-law, Robert Turner, Partridge county, Sunday afternoon, and who has since been committed to the penitentiary, has written a letter regarding these statements, and has replied that no such person as Worthington is or ever has been known to the President.

Lake Dillon Speaks. CHICAGO, June 12.—Lake Dillon left for Philadelphia this afternoon. "My business has been neglected," he said, "but I shall be back in a few days and expect to work harder than ever in bringing the murder to justice. I now have not a particle of doubt but that they will all be convicted." He said that the sentence of the coroner's verdict will hurt the Clan-na-Gael, but that this body of men is being reorganized and will be neutralized by the elimination of some of the present objectionable features.

Not to Encourage the Twin Trust and Demagogues. STILLWATER, Minn., June 12.—At the suggestion of Governor Merriam, the board of state prison managers at their meeting here yesterday appointed a committee of two to investigate the question of making binding wire at the state prison by convict.

This method of circumventing the mechanical law of the penal code was suggested originally by the state legislature at its recent session, and in some other states has been adopted by the authorities.

Terrible Railway Accident in Ireland. DUBLIN, June 12.—An excursion train from Arrah was wrecked near that place. The train contained 4300 persons, composed of Methodist Sunday school scholars, teachers and relatives. It is reported that fifty children were killed.

Later—a dispatch from Arrah says that seven children have been taken from the wreck, and others are buried under the debris. Over one hundred are injured.

Details of the Accident.

DUBLIN, June 12.—The following details have been received in regard to the accident to the excursion train. The excursion party left Arrah this morning in two trains. The accident occurred at a point where the trains had to ascend a place on a bank fifty feet high. The first train ascended the grade without trouble. The second section attempted to ascend, but the weight of the train proved too great for the engine. Several cars were detached and were allowed to run back towards the level track, but before they reached it they came in collision with the ordinary train from Arrah which was proceeding at a good rate of speed. The engine and cars were completely wrecked. Hosts of volunteers were soon at hand and the dead and wounded were taken from the wreck and carried down the bank. Medical aid was called, and a special train from Belfast brought to the scene twenty surgeons from that city. The number of deaths and injured persons in the accident is unascertainable. All the shops in Arrah were closed this afternoon, and the people were in general mourning. The engineer, fireman and guard of the train and traffic manager's clerk were summoned before the magistrate, and were remanded on the charge of being responsible for the accident.

The shrieks of the children were horrible and many were mangled beyond recognition. There is scarcely a family that has not some one dead and in many cases whole families were killed. The number of children which the accident occurred is seventy feet high. Before starting on the fatal excursion the children had paraded the town streets with banners and banners. The town folk turned out almost en masse to wish them a happy holiday.

The train consisted of fifteen carriages. The bulk of the children were in the front portion of the train. About a dozen children were killed. The majority of the victims are about twenty years of age. They were in the last carriage which was completely smashed. All the bodies have now been taken to the morgue. The total killed is eighty-two, of which sixty-four have been identified. The number injured is about one-third of the entire number of passengers. Many of these are reported to succumb to the effects of their injuries.

THE REPUBLICAN PLAN.

The Revenue Scheme for the Next Congress.

BLAINE HAS THE PROTOCOL.

But Nothing Definite Has Been Determined Yet—The Osgiepe Is Dispatched to Hayti—It Fortifies Something.

(Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.) WASHINGTON, June 12.—One of the possible plans of the Republican majority of the ways and means committee for securing revenue legislation from the next Congress was outlined yesterday by General Browne, of Indiana.

General Browne is here for a few days, in a much better state of health than when he left a few months ago, and he has reconsidered his purpose to decline further service on the ways and means committee. He says that during the last session the Republicans of the committee talked over the scheme of disposing of the revenue question in sections, instead of attempting to carry everything in one bill. In this way it is believed that Democratic votes can be secured for certain propositions which could not be secured for the entire Republican scheme.

The Senate tariff bill of last winter, General Browne says, will be the basis of the Republican legislation, but it is likely to be modified in some particulars, the administrative features, involving the provisions intended to guard against an increase of the tariff schedule, will probably be put in another bill, which would command the nearly solid Republican vote and the vote of many Democrats from the tobacco-growing States. The tariff bill would be considerably enlarged by a separate bill. The duties schedules, regarding which there is the greatest difference of opinion, might then be taken up by themselves.

A meeting was held in the city hall with that a revenue bill of any description before the House, the minority could offer amendments to the bill which could be passed by the House, and they might offer some which it would be difficult for the Republicans to vote against on their merits.

General Browne, however, that this difficulty could be met by agreement of the Republican minority to stand together against these amendments when offered at an inopportune time, and that the plan was to hold in advance a meeting on all day, but to postpone morning sessions, to expect 2,500 men to be at work.

The new plan of canvassing the city and systematizing the distributions of supplies in the great exodus of workmen has been going on all day. As fast as money was handed out of the paymaster's window, the workmen boarded the trains on their picks and carts were loaded and left Johnstown without any expressed regrets.

The Berlin Conference Protocol.

(Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.) WASHINGTON, June 12.—The protocol of the Berlin conference reached Washington in an early hour Monday evening, arriving in New York via the steamer Niagara which left Bremen on the 1st instant. It was not opened by Secretary Blaine until yesterday morning. A little later, when the secretary drove around from the state department to the cabinet meeting at the White House, he carried the protocol with him. He also carried several copies containing the diplomatic correspondence relating to Samoan matters pending the official consideration of the complications resulting from the German proposal.

The protocol was opened in conversation with the President, who upon the subject, but the conference ended without the President having reached a conclusion. The more the President reflects upon the proposal, the more he is inclined to approve it. Our government has just resolved to acknowledge the beryl seal of Mataafa and his subjects in giving aid to our wrecked sailors, and had not been able to do so, it might be for the killing of the German sailors. As already stated in these dispatches, the President, leaving the responsibility for their ratification not only with the Senate, but the assumption by that body of the ratification of a line upon by the German government.

The Osgiepe Sent to Hayti.

(Special to THE HERALD—Examiner Dispatch.) WASHINGTON, June 12.—As a result of the cabinet meeting yesterday, the secretary of the navy called Captain A. S. Kellogg, commanding the Osgiepe, to proceed to Port-au-Prince to investigate and report upon the true condition of affairs in that republic. The move is considered very characteristic of Blaine's policy of interfering in foreign affairs. It is alleged that the mission of the naval officer is merely to reconnoitre, but the sending of a war ship to Hayti is apt to be misinterpreted.

Startling News from Hayti.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Some excitement was manifested at the state and navy departments today upon the receipt of a telegram from Commande Kellogg at Hayti. Secretary Tracy immediately communicated the information to Secretary Blaine, who carried the news to the President. Every one connected with the state and navy departments who is in a position to know the content of the telegram, refuses to say anything about it, except an official, who complained that the President should know the truth about the situation. Nevertheless, it was generally believed that the news at Hayti was currently reported that Captain O'Keane had been ordered to sail immediately for the seat of trouble with his vessel, which has just been refitted at New York.

New York, June 12.—A lively wind and thunder storm visited New York and Brooklyn last evening. Lightning struck several places. The Calendar Insolated Wire works at East Newark were struck by lightning and set on fire. Loss $7,000 to $10,000.

General Menck on the Battle Flags.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—General Menck, architect of the pension building, has addressed a letter to the commissioner of pensions suggesting that the flags borne in the battle by the soldiers of the United States and those captured by them in the war, be hung around the walls of the pension office building. He says also that all the tent of the acts of Congress regarding the captured flags in that they shall be deposited in some public place.

The commissioner has replied to General Menck that he will readily assist in this project. If the pension building be made waterproof. The roof of the building leaks badly in several places.

New York Bucket Shops.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The bucket shops on New street and Broadway suspended business today as soon as they learned that the measure prohibiting their operation had become law. Only one place kept open, and this was under the title of "Open Board of Brokers." Its managers claimed that it was not of the same order as an exchange, and was not affected by any law aimed at bucket shops.

GRATEFUL JOHNSTOWN.

The Inhabitants of the Ill-fated City Thank the People of the United States.

JOHNSTOWN, July 12.—Order is coming out of chaos and military discipline has shown its effect at the end of the first day. The grand exodus of workmen has been going on all day. As fast as money was handed out of the paymaster's window, the workmen boarded the trains on their picks and carts were loaded and left Johnstown without any expressed regrets.

Work on the ruins has been nearly at a standstill all day, but to-morrow morning General Hastings expects 2,500 men to be at work.

The new plan of canvassing the city and systematizing the distributions of supplies in the great exodus of workmen has been going on all day. As fast as money was handed out of the paymaster's window, the workmen boarded the trains on their picks and carts were loaded and left Johnstown without any expressed regrets.

A slight rain has been falling all the morning and the city presents a most dispiriting appearance. Everything is turmoil and confusion and little or no work is being done.

The sufferers were at the commissary stations early as usual this morning, but stood around in the rain several hours before they were served. They have the same distressed look as ever since the flood, and as the days roll by, their tones do not seem to liven up any. In fact, the people here are just commencing to realize fully the terrible ordeal they have gone through.

General Hastings says he will have 3,000 food and work to-morrow. He thinks there will be very little left of the $100,000 furnished by Pennsylvania by the time the work is done.

A Cave and a Crash.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 12.—A disastrous cave took place here late this afternoon. The Hottenbeck & Hellman vein mines are situated under a thickly settled portion of the city. They are a thousand feet deep, and for years past no coal was supposed to be mined in that portion underground. The city fear the earth would sink, and at 4 o'clock the crash came, and one of the principal thoroughfares is filled with crevices from which gas escaped in large volumes. The owners of houses are greatly alarmed. They are very much afraid that all they could do to escape with their lives. Some of the mines were caught in the workings and killed. Eight hundred men and boys are thrown out of work. The mine owners' loss will be over one hundred thousand dollars, and the loss to the property owners on the surface will be double this amount.
