21ST YEAR---No. 6,507. WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY EVENING, JUNE 12, 1889. PRICE TWO CENTS

NEW ORDER OF THINGS.

JOHNSTOWN PRESENTS AN ANIMATED APPEARANCE TO-DAY.

The Local Work of Raising Funds for the Suffering Proceeds Vigorously—The Amount That Treasurer Johnson Can Send Away.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., June 12.—The new administration is in charge this morning and the different camps present an animated appearance. Big squads of men, some with flags, are parading around. The day opened with the usual rain, which promises to continue throughout the day. The Baltimore and Ohio depot is surrounded with a big crowd of men waiting to receive their money. About 500 men are at work this morning. Trains on the Pennsylvania railroad now arrive and depart from the regular passenger stations, and the broken tracks over the stone bridge have been fully repaired.

Some of the bodies recovered now are so badly decomposed that the skin breaks and the hair falls off while being washed by the undertakers. None are being embalmed now. The bodies when first recovered are saturated with disinfectants, brought to the morgue, where the clothing is cut off, valuables preserved and description taken, after which the remains are wrapped in a muslin shroud, coffined and immediately taken away for burial.

A request has been made that the Mayors of all cities and towns along the rivers between Pittsburg and New Orleans send descriptions of any bodies that they may find in the rivers to General Hastings at Johnstown. Permanent headquarters have been established in the Pennsylvania Railroad freight warehouse. It is stated that General Hastings is considering the advisability of ordering out the Eighteenth Regiment to act as a relief to the Fourteenth Regiment, now doing guard and police duty.

AT WILLARD HALL.

Nearly $23,000 and Over Thirty Boxes Ready to be Sent Away.

Over $22,000, almost $23,000, and thirty or forty big boxes of clothes can be sent on to Johnstown or elsewhere at almost an hour's notice from this city.

Treasurer Johnson has almost $23,000 in bank that has been collected for the flood sufferers, and, by this evening, at least thirty boxes of clothes, shoes, hats and other necessaries will be packed, ready for shipment.

For a couple of days past Mr. Solomons, who is in charge of the good work at Willard Hall, has been holding back the supplies contributed for Johnstown sufferers to learn just where they were most needed and where they would do the most good. Treasurer Johnson has also been waiting for instructions. He telegraphed to Governor Beaver, as announced in these columns at the time, to inquire where money and supplies should be sent to do the most good—that is, where they should be sent first and in the greatest abundance.

Governor Beaver's answer came this morning. It is as follows:

"HARRISBURG, PA., June 11.

"Neither hospital supplies nor wearing apparel specially needed at present. Thanks for continued interest.

"JAMES A. BEAVER."

The contributions to-day placed the total amount of cash contributed to the flood sufferers by Washingtonians past the $50,000 mark, including the amounts sent there direct. Treasurer Johnson has himself received $39,911.50. Of this $3,000 has been spent for groceries, two or three hundred for disenfectants under Dr. Hamilton's directions, and a thousand or so disbursed along the upper Potomac and for necessary expenses in the good work. This leaves almost $23,000 in bank subject to Treasurer Johnson's check.

Miss Anna B. Yeatman was at the relief committee's office this morning on an errand of mercy. Her call was to volunteer to give an entertainment in Willard Hall at any time the committee may choose for the benefit of the flood sufferers.

Nineteen boxes of clothing and provisions were sent from the Homeopathic Dispensary to Johnstown yesterday. Clothes and such other necessaries as are needed in Johnstown are still being rapidly received at Willard Hall, and as fast as they come they are assorted, mended if they need it, and packed in the big boxes ready to be sent to Johnstown.

Public Printer Palmer has done a clever thing in giving the committee a lot of big paper boxes to pack the goods in. The boxes are sent from the Government Printing Office and are made of heavy boards, just the right sort of boxes for this purpose.

Vice-President Solomons received a long letter from Clara Barton this morning. Miss Barton cleverly describes the difficulties of communication with the outside world in Johnstown and tells how busy she is in her noble work.

Miss Barton wrote that unless people in Johnstown were notified of the shipment of goods to them they were apt not to get them handily.

Since the Star's contribution was handed in, $120 more have been subscribed. The Post's contributions amount to $4,574.70.

Collections by the following-named have been turned over to-day to Treasurer Johnson: Additional collections by Mrs. F. L. Moore, $235.10, which included $112 from the Georgetown College students and $50 from the college authorities and $41 of which was for the canal sufferers; cash, 25 cents; by the Star for C. & O. Canal sufferers, $265.35; for Conemaugh sufferers, $1,321.75, in addition to $2,593.97 sent to Johnstown direct; additional collections by Messrs. Luttrell, Lansburg, and Woodward, $119.

SUFFERING NEAR BY.

The Relief Committee Send Aid to Leesburg, Va.

No money was sent to Johnstown to-day, but $200 was sent to Leesburg. It seems that on some islands in the upper Potomac there were a hundred or so people whose condition was never too prosperous at best. When the flood came the swollen river swept in an unbroken tumult over the islands, and the people were lucky to escape with their lives. Everything they had in the world was swept away by the flood. The people have been living in the woods as best they might since, until two or three days ago some of them reached Leesburg. They were cared for by the Leesburg people as well as possible, but their condition is still most pitiable. Frank Hume was in Leesburg and investigated the cases thoroughly. This morning he went to Treasurer Johnson and told him of the newly discovered flood sufferers. Treasurer Johnson at once sent $200 to Leesburg for their relief, and, if more is needed, they will get it.

LATE DEPARTMENT NEWS.

The Indian Blanket Contract.

John Dobson of Philadelphia has been awarded the contract for furnishing Indians with blankets. The contract aggregates about $56,000, which is about $8,000 less than the lowest bidder. The contract was held by Mr. Dobson last year and his bid, although $8,000 less than the next lowest bidder, was rejected by Commissioner Oberly, on the ground that Dobson had not satisfactorily carried out his present contract. The whole matter was referred to Assistant Secretary Bussey and he decided that the original rejection of Mr. Dobson's bid was unwarranted. He was awarded the contract on his original bid and the second advertisement was ordered cancelled.

Overwhelmed With Invitations.

Secretary Rusk, who returned to Washington yesterday after two weeks' absence in Wisconsin, returns to find himself overwhelmed with invitations to visit and address State Agricultural Organizations and Fair Associations throughout the country during the coming season. He doubts his ability to represent the Department at some of the gatherings to which he has been invited, for the reason that much of his spare time will be required in maturing a plan of reorganization of the Agricultural Department, which he hopes to submit to the President in his annual report next fall. For this reason it will not be strange if the Secretary is compelled to decline many invitations of this sort which otherwise he might be glad to accept.

Commissioner Black Again Overruled.

The name of William H. Robinson, Company B, Fifth Regiment, Michigan Volunteers, has been placed on the pension roll by order of Assistant Secretary Bussey. Robinson lost a thumb by the accidental discharge of a pistol he was carrying. His claim for a pension was rejected by the Commissioner of Pensions on the ground that a pistol was no part of an infantryman's equipment. The testimony in the case showed that the officers allowed the soldiers of this regiment to carry revolvers of their own and that Robinson being in line of duty at the time, Assistant Secretary Bussey overruled the former adverse decision of the Pension Office and grants Robinson a pension.

The Norfolk Navy-Yard.

Secretary Tracy, who returned to the city yesterday from a visit to the navy-yard at Portsmouth, Va., said last evening that he was favorably impressed with the facilities the yard possessed for ship building. The first plates for the new cruiser Texas, he said, were cast there yesterday, and the work would be vigorously pushed to completion. They were also preparing to commence the rebuilding of the old monitor Amphitrite. "No," he added, "there will not be any changes made at the yard. I am satisfied with the way in which things are going."

A GREAT COMBINATION

THE PARTICIPANTS IN TO-NIGHT'S BENEFIT PERFORMANCE.

A Sketch of the Entertainment That Will Be Provided For Those Who Will Go to the Bijou Theatre to Help Swell the Relief Fund.

The entertainment for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers to be given at the Bijou Theatre this evening, under the auspices of Proprietor Harris and "our esteemed contemporary," the Washington Post, promises to be an affair of great moment and superior eclat. Elsewhere in this paper will be found a resumé of the performance, but in that is not included the piece de resistance of the evening, the very gem and essence of the entire affair, to wit: A couple of recitations by Colonel Beriah Wilkins, the Democratic editor of that paper, and General Frank Hatton, the Republican editor. It was intended to spring these recitations on an unsuspecting public and give it a glad surprise, but the all-discerning eye of THE CRITIC OWL "got onto the snap," and now THE CRITIC proposes to give it all away. At infinite pains and enormous expense it has secured the recitations to be delivered by each of the gentlemen, and herewith publishes them at the uniform price of two cents per copy:

General Hatton will appear first and will narrate in rhythmic measures the sufferings of his coparcener, Beriah, who, on one occasion, essayed to navigate the roaring, tumbling, billowy floods of the raw Potomac. This recitation is as follows and is called:

BERIAH WILKINS, THE NAVIGATOR.

'Twas on the wild Potomac,
The stream that runneth down
Past washing brooks and torrents
And on past Washington,
That lately several seamen,
Who do not wear the blue,
Sailed with Beriah Wilkins
As skipper of the crew.

When off the coast of Sandbar,
The clouds grew thick and black,
And gusts of wind blew billows
Like mountains in their track.
The agitated vessel
Plunged high aloft and fell,
And every able seaman
Remarked: "Don't this beat ——?"

Then bold Beriah Wilkins,
A sailor tried and true,
Stood on the deck and shouted:
"Ho! cut the boom in two!"
An instant, and Beriah
Felt strangely queer inside,
And, weeping for his dinner,
He gave it to the tide.

The vessel kept on heaving,
Beriah heaved the more,
Till, in a fit of weakness,
Beriah took the floor.
He gazed across the waters,
With many a yearnful yearn,
And murmured: "Mr. Speaker,
I move that we adjourn."

At last the hardy seamen
Took Wilkins from the floor,
And tenderly they laid him
Upon the firm, dry shore.
Then spoke the bold Beriah,
So fearless, yet so pale,
"I thank you, noble seamen,
Let's all return by rail."

And so they did, that evening,
But as the mail was late,
Beriah and his sailors
Returned to town by freight.
"'Tis better," said Beriah,
Reflecting on the gale,
"And when I next go sailing
I'll walk or go by rail."

This will be followed by Colonel Wilkins, who will also in the same style of language narrate how his able coadjutor, in all things save politics, suffered during the time he was caught at Johnstown by the raging waters and could not get away, although President Harrison telegraphed as many as five times to know if Frank Hatton was safe. This sad tale will be told by Colonel Wilkins in these words:

The South Fork dam was strong that morn,
At eve, beneath the flow
Of raging waters, leaping high,
It dropped on Conemaugh.

The whirling billows swept the vale,
As by a giant's breath,
And every living thing was plunged
Into the tide of Death.

Upon a Pullman platform stood
Our Frank in plain attire,
And when he saw the coming flood,
He murmured, "Oh, Beriah!

"Why am I here in dire distress,
Hedged in by these alarms—
If I must die, why can't it be,
Beriah, in your arms?

"I see the dark, tempestuous floods,
That fill my soul with fears;
If I must drown, oh, why can't I
Be drownded in your tears?

"The trivial things are all forgot,
In this disaster dire;
'Tis not my life I fear to lose,
'Tis thee, 'tis thee, Beriah!"

"Ah, love like mine is love indeed,
And, sweetheart, were I lost,
Who would there be to take my place,
And boom the Sunday Post?

"Could you, Beriah, wield the pen
Your Frank has wielded so,
To glorify Republicans?
Oh, no, Beriah, no!

"These things, Beriah, still my heart
And freeze my very blood,
They are to me much graver than
The terrors of the flood.

"And, sweetheart"—here the waters wild
Surged up to Hatton's chin,
And with a gurgle and a gulp
They took each other in.

But Frank was light, and as the flood
Rose more and more and more,
The tossing waves picked Hatton up
And cast him on the shore.

The few survivors from the train
Found Hatton still alive,
And, taking him far up the hill,
They sought him to revive.

They brought a flask of whisky out,
In trembling and in fear—
Frank got a whiff, then murmured low,
"How came Beriah here?"

It is not necessary to call the readers' attention to the fact that the applause which will follow the efforts will not only be spontaneous, but there will be enough of it to be heard all over town.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

Hotel Clerk in Willard's: "Well, I don't know anything about the Clan-na-Gael and don't want to. None of that for me, thank you. It's a dangerous business."

Judge O'Reiley: "I think that the Irish Land Leaguers were very indiscreet in prosecuting Dr. Cronin for his views. He was an honest man and believed what he thought to be right."

Dr. Bacon: "I am surprised that there isn't more disease in New York city than there is. I'll bet that one half of the population does not know that three distinctive streams of water are running under the foundations of their houses."

J. Hadley Doyle of the Potomacs: "We are going right along in refitting our boathouse and intend to put it in better shape than ever. I don't suppose the damage to our property amounts to more than $400 now that we have had a chance to thoroughly examine and make an inventory of our property."

Charles H. Parker, real estate agent: "Yes, I believe in free water, and think in time that the city will have it. The rents should either be abated entirely or included in the general tax list. I do not think it right to tax any one for what he does not use, and the $5 rate now being paid by hundreds of property-owners in the city who do not use water is unjust."

President Hurt of the Washington and Georgetown Railroad: "The modified order issued by the Commissioners regarding the kind of material required to be used in paving the space between the tracks is substantially the same as that already sent out. I don't care what anyone says to the contrary nothing can equal cobble stones. I know this from long experience in street railroading, and as for them being not so uniform in appearance this should be a secondary consideration."

SLIGHTLY COMPLICATED.

An Interesting Question Arising From an Old Divorce Case.

An interesting question arising from an old divorce case is now under investigation in the Court in General Term. On March 4, 1866, the court in this District granted a divorce to Ann McCarthy from Dennis A. McCarthy, giving her $80 per month, $50 of which was to consist in the privilege of collecting the rent of a house and lot. The remainder, $30, was to be paid her until her death. She has filed a bill to have the property sold to pay the $30. The children, however, set forth that Dennis McCarthy died in 1885, and contend, through Miller & Carusi as counsel, that the court has no power to compel the payment after his death. Judge Snell appears for Mrs. McCarthy.

FOR THE HEATED TERM.

She Wanted to go to the Workhouse for the Summer.

Fannie Sanford is a colored lady of lux urious instincts, who objects to spending the heated term in the city. She wanted to get far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife, and appeared in the Police Court this morning with her trunk all packed, ready to go away.

"What do you want here?" asked Judge Miller.

"I wants to go to de wu'khouse."

"Where?"

"To de wu'khouse."

"Do you know that you will have to work if you go there?"

"I'se willin' to wu'k. Of coh'se, I wouldn't 'spect to wu'k foh nothin'."

"Well, you'd work for nothing if you went down there."

The old lady considered the subject awhile and announced that she wanted to go down anyhow. When told that she could not be accommodated she persisted, and had to be taken from the court-room.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Sydney B. Cunningham Put on Trial in the Criminal Court.

The case of Sydney B. Cunningham, charged with assault on Turner Hackman, was placed on trial in the Criminal Court to-day after a vigorous plea for a postponement by the defendant's counsel, Colonel Robert E. Christy, who read an affidavit to the effect that a witness was absent. The shooting occurred in the Capitol some months ago.

Cunningham is a middle-aged man with white hair and whiskers. He was employed as disbursing clerk of the Senate. The trial will probably occupy several days.

CANNOT BE ADMITTED.

Evidence to Show That a Man is Insane from Drink.

To-day in the trial of Wm. H. Walter, charged with an assault to kill on Sergeant Falvey, General S. S. Henkle, who, with W. K. Duhamel, appears in the defense of the prisoner, offered testimony from Dr. Godding to show that Walter was so insane from liquor as to be incapable of forming an intent. Mr. Lipscomb, for the Government, contended that this would controvert the established principle that voluntary drunkenness did not excuse or palliate an offense. To determine whether or not there was any intent was exclusively for the jury. Judge Bradley declined to admit the evidence.

ALEXANDRIA, June 12.—Henry Herbner, the King street restaurant-keeper, was found dead in his bed early this morning. He retired about midnight, apparently in good health. He was a large man and was widely known. It is thought that he will be buried from St. Mary's Catholic Church to-morrow, Thursday.

WILL NOT INTERFERE

THE PRESIDENT TO THE ANTI-MAHONE MEN.

He Declares That He is President of the Whole Country and Cannot Take Any Part in Factional Quarrels in the States.

So far as President Harrison is concerned the squabble among the Virginia Republicans may continue ad infinitum. He demonstrated pretty clearly this morning that he did not intend to become mixed up in the dispute between the Mahone and Anti-Mahone Republicans. And it was little comfort he gave the Wise faction when they called at the White House about 10:30 this morning, the time appointed for the hearing. President Harrison was pacing up and down the library patiently waiting the coming of the discontented Virginians.

The President was, no doubt, in deep thought, for he failed to hear the heavy tread made by the committee as they ascended the stairs, and he appeared startled when Doorkeeper Loeffler opened the door and announced the truce maker. The President looked amazed, but, recovering himself, he held out his hand and greeted General Groner, chairman; ex-Governor Cameron, ex-Congressman Jas. D. Brady, O. E. Hine, L. McKenzie, E. Wilkinson, A. A. Warfield, S. W. Lyons, W. E. Pattie, J. S. Eggbaron, D. Paul Collins, W. M. Pumphrey, ex-Congressman H. Libbey, J. A. Frazier and G. T. Brown.

Ex-Governor Cameron acted as spokesman. He informed the President that the politics in the State of Virginia were anything but healthy; that it was through General Mahone's action that the State was lost last November, and that at present the Republicans were practically held in slavery by the Mahone organization. It was not patronage they sought, but they did want the President to kindly use his offices to bring about a settlement of the existing difficulties. It was in the President's power, and if Mr. Harrison would exert his influence the Mahone organization could be destroyed and the Republicans in the State would be free once more.

Ex-Governor Cameron stated the case from his point of view with great force and clearness. The President appeared to take great interest in what was said, but at the same time his face was complacable.

At the conclusion of Mr. Cameron's speech the President slowly and with considerable earnestness said that he was sorry that there should be such a breach in the State, but that it was not his province to interfere with State politics. He was not the President of the Republican party alone, but the President of the United States. He would recognize no faction in the State of Virginia. Candidates for office would have their claims considered on their own special merit, and it made no difference whether the candidates were indorsed by one faction or another.

The President also remarked that a committee from General Mahone called on him yesterday and that he informed them that in the question at issue he knew no Mahone faction nor Wise faction. And that it remained for the representatives of the party in the State to patch up their differences among themselves. He would like to see harmony in the State, but it would have to come through the efforts of the party leaders and not through him. The committee left the White House in a different frame of mind than when they entered it. It was manifest that they had been sadly disappointed and no doubt they were much put out at the fact that a Mahone delegation had secured the first interview with Mr. Harrison.

CHAIRMAN BARNUM'S SUCCESSOR.

Calvin S. Brice of Ohio Chosen by the Democratic Committee.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Calvin S. Brice of Ohio has been elected chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

The corridors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel were thronged this morning with big and little Democratic politicians. Members of the Democratic Committee representing every State in the Union were among those in the throng. The committee was called to order at noon. It was almost settled among the members before the committee met that Calvin S. Brice should be the next chairman in place of the late W. H. Barnum, and his election was promptly declared. After the selection of Mr. Brice the introduction of resolutions was in order. A resolution of condolence with the family of the late chairman was introduced by Carlos French, Senator Barnum's successor, as National Committeeman from Connecticut.

HE HAS DISAPPEARED.

A. Monrote, a Well-Known Goldsmith, Leaves the City.

A. Monrote, a well-known goldsmith, has disappeared from the city. His absence is explained by a note to a friend saying that "a little game called policy" had led him to pawn more than he could redeem."

NEVADA, Mo., June 12.—The marriage is just announced of C. E. Jestus, a wool merchant of Hepler, Kan., and Miss Emma Bond, the Illinois school teacher who was so terribly abused and ill-treated by a gang of ruffians near Taylorville, Ill., in 1882. The girl was an invalid for several years, and her case won the sympathy of the whole people. About a year ago, while visiting friends here, she met Mr. Jestus. They fell in love, and the young lady just announces that they were secretly married in St. Louis in October last. They arrived here yesterday on their way to Kansas.

Suffering in the James River Valley.

RICHMOND, June 12.—A gentleman of this city who paid a visit to his farm up the James River Valley to-day says that the general public have no idea how crops have been injured by the recent flood. He says the corn and grass are all beaten down and ruined, and that the only crops which have escaped with even partial damage, are in the high lands. Those on the low lands, by far the better portion of the Valley, are completely destroyed, and much suffering will follow.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

The President Extends Executive Clemency in Two Cases.

The President to-day appointed Archie E. Baxter of New York to be United States Marshal for the Northern District of New York.

Mr. Baxter lives at Elmira, N. Y., and is a well-known G. A. R. man and an eloquent speaker.

Ten minutes sufficed for the President to dispose of the anti-Mahoneites of Virginia at the White House to-day.

Shortly after the departure of the Virginians, Robert M. Douglass, formerly Marshal of North Carolina, was closeted with the President for some time, and doubtless gave some pointers on politics in the Tar-Heel State. Other callers comprised Secretaries Tracy and Noble, General Schofield, Senator Hiscock, Representatives Cox, Ray and Houk, B. C. Tiffany and Dr. S. H. Freeman.

The President exercised his prerogative to-day in the case of Peter O'Neill and Austin Grogan.

They were convicted at the October term, 1888, of the U. S. Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York of assaulting a letter carrier while in the discharge of his duty, and sentenced January, 1889, to one year's imprisonment and each to pay $100 fine. The President has, in view of the extenuating circumstances, and of the recommendation of the United States attorney, granted a pardon.

The petitioners have been in prison eight months.

Inclement weather interfered with Mrs. Harrison's plans to-day, and consequently she did not leave for Cape May as intended. However, if it is fair to-morrow afternoon she will go to the seaside with the White House babies and the President will probably join her Sunday.

FIFTY CHILDREN KILLED.

A Fatal Accident to a Sunday School Excursion Train.

DUBLIN, June 12.—An excursion train containing a large number of passengers, was thrown from the track near Armagh this morning. The cars were reduced to splinters and twenty persons were killed. The number of wounded is not definitely known, but it is large, and some of the injured will die.

Later reports from Armagh states that fifty children were killed. The train was filled with Methodist Sunday-school scholars who, with their relatives and teachers, were on their way to Warrenport.

DUBLIN, June 12.—The number of persons injured is upward of 100.

THE RUINS AT SEATTLE.

Clearing Away the Debris From the Fire Begun in Earnest.

SEATTLE, W. T., June 12.—The work of clearing away the debris in the burnt district began yesterday in earnest. All the contents of the vaults of the various banks have been found to be in perfect order. Telegraph, telephone and electrical light wires are being rapidly repaired. The telephone system will be in operation in a few days and the electric lights in a few weeks. The water works are already in operation. Railroad and steamboat transportation has hardly been interrupted by the conflagration, though considerable inconvenience has been experienced by both in landing passengers. Business houses are finding locations in tents and temporary structures. Professional men are opening up offices in houses and wherever they can secure temporary accommodations. Schools have started up again and all the churches except the Trinity Episcopal and Methodist Protestant held services as usual Sunday. The daily newspapers are all issuing as usual. Offers of aid continue to pour in, together with much money and more provisions. No statement of losses can be made more accurate than already given. The loss is placed at $15,000,000, and this, it is believed, will be found to be a good estimate. Contributions of cash now aggregate $36,800.

In the low-priced shares Wabash preferred was actively dealt in and advanced rapidly. In the hour to noon Jersey Central suddenly jumped up 2 per cent. to 114. The other coal stocks also recorded sharp advances. At this writing the market is up ½ to 2 per cent.
